

Grammar homework: 18-25.09.26

Edit the paragraph so it includes correctly used apostrophes and homophones.

Example: '...the schools choir ...' → → 'the school's choir ...' because it is the choir belonging to the school- possessive.

Yesterday, the schools choir had it's final practise before there big performance. Everyone wore they're new uniforms, and the teachers said it was one of the best rehearsals they'd ever seen.

Sarah lost her voice because she'd been singing to much, so she couldn't do her solo. "Its okay," said Mr. Jones. "Your still part of the team!"

Meanwhile, the boys forgot there sheet music, which caused a bit of panic. "They're going too miss they're cue!" whispered Lucy. But luckily, someone had brought spares.

Afterwards, the headteacher gave out certificates. "Your all stars!" she said proudly. The students clapped there hands and cheered.

The choirs next performance is in two weeks, and their hoping it goes just as well.

Sentence	Singular possession	Plural possession
The dogs' bowls were lined up neatly.
The cat's toy was hidden under the sofa.
The teacher's pen ran out of ink.
The babies' toys were scattered on the floor.		